The native Custom. If a man's eldest die and leave his wife, or betrothed wife behind him, and leave no children, and his youngest brother should take his wife to raise up Seed unto his eldest brother, or one of his kinsmen should take his wife to raise up Seed unto deceased brother.

But the father Cannot raise up Seed unto his Son, neither the eldest brother Cannot raise up Seed unto his youngest brother. It would be Contary to the Custom.

But it is also from the father to nominate any of the youngest brother to take her, or any of the relative to take the woman and raise up Seed unto deceased.

This nomination will be knowing by the people.

Also if man Married a woman, if She is barren, and does not get Children, the man Can take her Sister to raise up Seed unto her Sister, if She had no Sister, the man Should take her niece to raise up Seed unto her Aunt, or any of her kinswoman to raise up Seed unto the woman.

That is, the Children Shall be reckoned in the genealogy of deceased brother, and Shall be considered his.

The object of this law or Custom was the preservation of families, which gradually Ceased to be in order to keep the families, and tribes distinct, and to perpetuate them.
