March forward to a peoples education

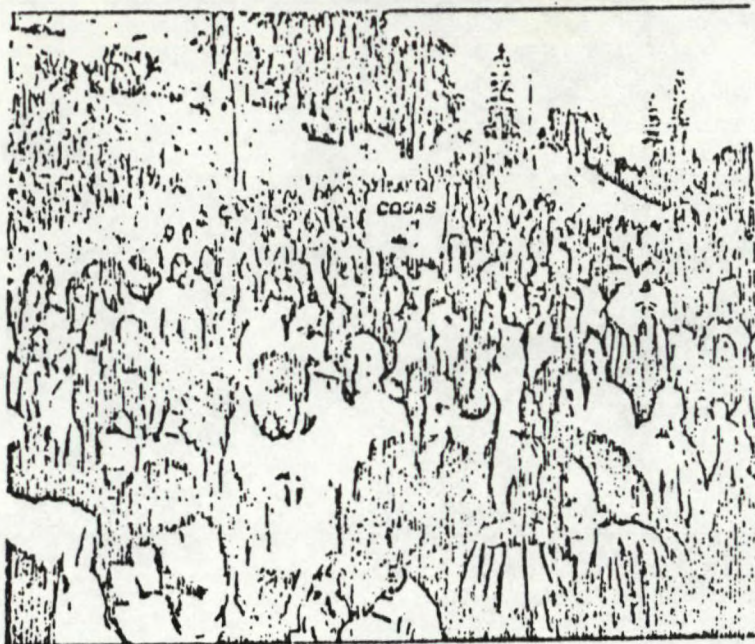

EDUCATION CHARTER CAMPAIGN

In South Africa there are many problems with the education given to our people. Whilst about is spent on every White schoolchild, only about is spent on Indians on Coloureds and on African school child. On top of this our people are forced to buy schoolbooks, and pay high school fees for our children. Many teachers are not qualified and classrooms facilities are poor. And yet our people face many other problems

- Low wages for long working hours
- High cost of living and increasing G:S:T: Unemployment and job reservation
- Poor housing at high rents and rates.

OUR PEOPLE ARE GETTING A RAW DEAL -IN EDUCATION AND OTHER MATTERS.

NEW CONSTITUTION MEANS MORE SUFFERING.

The government's new deal has made things worse for us:

- White people are still in the majority
- Apartheid in education, housing and at work will remain
- The government continues to harass our leaders, like the six at the British Consulate

With the new constitution, our people will have no control over education policy and financing. So we will still receive inferior, inadequate education.

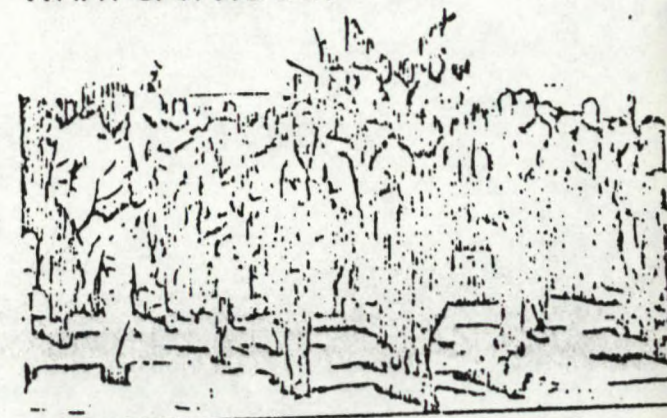

YET OUR PEOPLE HAVE ALWAYS STRUGGLED FOR BETTER EDUCATION

- In 1976, students in Soweto demanded equal education
- In 1980, students throughout S.Africa boycotted classes because of the unequal education system. Doctors, teachers, parents and workers supported them
- Today students in the Vaal Triangle are once again making the call for a free, just and improved education system.

A number of concerned organisations representing students and teachers want to bring our communities together to demand EQUAL EDUCATION FOR ALL. The organizations AZASO, NUSAS, COSAS, and NEUSA have started an EDUCATION CHARTER CAMPAIGN. Together with the people, they want to collect our demands for improvements in education. This plan will only succeed if all of us - parents, students, workers, professionals and teachers - support the Education Charter Campaign. The campaign will be run all over South Africa.

In Natal, the Campaign will be launched this weekend with a mass rally when speakers will speak about the struggle for a democratic education

WHAT CAN WE DO?

- Attend the mass rally this weekend in our thousands
- Speak to our friends about other problems in education
- support all concerned organizations in our communities and schools
- Pass this pamphlet on.
