West Hampstead,
London NW6.1EE,
England.

Dear Benjamin,

Kindly receive herewith more metrial on the questions you raised on the background of events required for the book. Believe me I mean replying them all, but my enemy is time.

You spoke about the Postal Strike in London, as if you had sent me a letter which I replied to say I had not received. I wonder if I misunderstood you, because I have waited for such a letter. So I think I had misunderstood you Ben.

This is another part of reply to questions, the rest will be following. Only thereafter I shall deal with the Sobukwe's PAC in exile and relations with the Charterists in exile and foreign power-blocs' alignments in which I have personally been involved in the last two decades.

What is happening at the moment are smokes from the fire embers that President R.M.Sobukwe kindled in that difficult era in history of South Africa.

I haven't got the VISA to visit Lesotho yet, but I am trying although the trouble that took place during the Pope's visit, has not improved my chance of being allowed into Lesotho, for the moment.

Yours sincerely,
