MEDICO-LEGAL REPORT.

NAME	:	SYLVIA MEMANI
DATE OF BIRTH	:	27/09/1957
OCCUPATION	:	CLEANER
DATE OF ASSAULT	:	08/04/1992
DATE OF EXAMINATION	:	04/09/1993

HISTORY

At about 9 pm on 08/04/1992 Mrs Sylvia Memani was assaulted. She was hit with shambucks, rifle butts and was kicked. As a result of the assault she sustained injuries to her right forearm and hand, a laceration to the back of her neck, she is unable to hear properly in her left ear, injuries to both knees and her back. She also sustained injuries to her left forehead her chest and her right shoulder.

2/...During

During the assault she lost consciousness. She remained unconscious for approximately half an hour. The following day she was taken by ambulance to the Natalspruit Hospital for treatment.

At the Natalspruit hospital X-rays were taken of her right arm and hand, and a cast was applied from her elbow to her fingers. After treatment she was discharged. Later she reattended the hospital to have her cast removed. She does not know how long after the assault that this occured.

PRESENT COMPLAINTS

- Her left shoulder is painful. The pain is made worse when she works with her shoulder and she is unable to lie on it at night because of pain.
- 2) Her right forearm and hand are painful in cold weather and when she tries to lift heavy objects. She is obliged to take Panado approximately two tablets twice weekly to counter act this pain.

PREVIOUS MEDICAL HEALTH

Prior to the assault she was generally well.

EMPLOYMENT

Prior to the assault she worked as a cleaner in a doctors surgery. Following the assault her employer gave her three months leave to recover.

3/...She returned

She returned to work after three weeks as she had no income. She therefore worked despite the fact that her injuries were very painful for about two months following the assault. Following this there was an improvement, however her left shoulder and right arm remained painful. The pain gets worse when the weather is cold and when she lifts heavy objects. This affects her ability to work.

She found that she was not able to do her work properly. There were certain things she was unable to do and eventually she resigned in February 1993.

She has been a machine washer at the Coca-Cola factory for approximately the last two weeks.

SOCIAL AMENETIES

Mrs Sylvia Memani finds that she is unable to do some of the house work that she did prior to the assault. For instance she finds that she is unable to do the washing properly and takes a long time to finish this work. She finds that lifting heavy objects causes her pain.

Her home is in the homelands where she built her own houses and tended her own plot prior to the assault. Following the assault she is unable to build her own house and is unable to use a hoe and therefore is unable to tend her own plot.

Prior to the assault she was able to fetch her own firewood. This she is unable to do any more.

Prior to the assault she drew her own water and carried it on her head, however following the assault she is unable to get the water container onto her head and requires assistance for this.

EXAMINATION FINDINGS

1) SCARRING

There were two hyperpigmented marks over the postero-lateral aspect of her right hand. Each mark measured 2 cm by 4 mm.

There was a mark 2.5 cm by 5 mm wide which was mildly hyperpigmented over the anterior aspect of the left shoulder.

There was a 3 cm long curved mark approximately 1 mm wide over the volar aspect of the distal right forearm.

There was a 2 cm by 1.5 cm hyperpigmented mark over the left forearm.

There was a 3 cm by 1 cm mark just lateral to the tibia over approximately the mid calf region.

5/...RELATED

•... • .

She had tenderness over her left acromio-clavicular joint. Certain movements resulted in pain in this joint. Her shoulder movements were satisfactory.

RELATED TO HER RIGHT FOREARM AND WRIST

She had a markedly reduced range of movement of her right wrist. The movements were as follows:

flexion	right	45°
	left	80°

extention	right	45°

Her wrist and handwere held in a flexed position during the examination and there was a tremor in her right hand.

The sensation over the right hand was reduced when compared to the left hand. She was unable to close her right hand fully. Her grip strength was grossly diminished. There was tenderness over her hand and wrist.

SPECIAL INVESTIGATIONS

X-rays of her left and right acromio-clavicular joints and right forearm and hand were taken on 06/09/1993. (Radiologists report enclosed). In addition to the comments made by the Radiologist, I would like to comment as follows:

6/...There is

There is distortion of the base of the fourth metacarpal suggesting the possibility of a previous fracture in this region.

DIAGNOSIS

As a result of the assault on 08/04/1992 Mrs Memani sustained the following injuries.

- A head injury with a period of a loss of consciousness.
- 2) Multiple injuries to her right forearm and hand with evidence of fractures at the base of the second proximal phalanx and the base of the fourth metatarsal and a possible fracture of the ulna styloid process and also a possible fracture of the neck of the radius.
- An injury to the left ear with resultant altered hearing in this ear.
- 4) An injury to the left acromio-clavicular joint.
- Multiple bruises and lacerations with residual marks and scarring visible to the present time.

PROGNOSIS AND FUTURE MEDICAL COSTS

1) RELATED TO HER RIGHT FOREARM AND HAND

The function of her right forearm and hand is extremely poor. At this stage a program of extensive rehabilitation should be commenced in order to improve the function of her hand. This would take approximately six weeks and would cost in the region of R1 500,00.

7/...Following

Following this the right hand and arm should be tested for residual disability.

2) RELATED TO THE LEFT ACROMIO-CLAVICULAR JOINT

There is clinical evidence of injury to the left acromio-clavicular joint. There is tenderness of the joint and certain movements cause pain in the joint at the present time which is more than sixteen months following the assault. It is reasonable to assume that the damage is sufficient to produce degenerative arthritis in the longer term. She will require treatment of the symptoms in this joint. This treatment will include the use of anti-inflammatory agents, occasional visits to an orthopaedic surgeon and the occasional taking of X-rays. It would be reasonable to allow R 600,00 per annum over a three year period for this purpose.

Should degenerative arthritis occur in this joint it is likely that over the next five to ten years she will require excision of the distal end of her clavicle. This will entail a period of hospitalisation of approximately three days, a period of disability for approximately six weeks and a cost of approximately R 4 000,00 at todays prices.

8/...RELATED TO

3) RELATED TO HER LEFT EAR

The left ear should be assessed by an E.N.T. specialist to establish what damage has occurred here.

CONCLUSION

As a result of the assault Mrs Sylvia Memani suffered a hugely traumatic event, both emotionally and physically. The experience must have been terrifying. She recieved multiple injuries to most parts of her body and sustained a head injury with resultant loss of consciousness.

She retains disabilities to the present time which include hearing problems on the left side, marked loss of function of her right forearm and hand and pain in her left shoulder region.

The injuries and the results of these have resulted in her being unable to work as effectively as she did before.

Her disabilities prevent her from carrying out her normal tasks at her home.

She is likely to sustain significant medical costs in future.

9/...I find

I find no reason to suspect that her life expectancy has been altered as a result of the assault.

LEFT AND RIGHT ACROMIO-CLAVICULAR JOINTS WITH STRESS STUDIES

There is no evidence of dislocation or sublumation of the left acromio-clavicular joint as compared to the right side and there is no abnormal movement noted on the comparative weight-bearing studies. There is no evidence of a past or recent fracture of the distal end of the left clavicle or acromion process of the left scapula.

The right acromio-clavicular joint is normal.

RIGHT FOREARM AND HAND

There is a well corticated loose body present in the medial aspect of the base of the proximal phalanx of the index finger which is most probably due to non-union of an old avulsion fracture rather than an ununited epiphysis. although this cannot be excluded.

There is no arthritic change in the metacarpal phalangeal joint of the index finger. There is no dislocation. The rest of the proximal phalanx and metacarpal of the index finger appear normal.

The rest of the metacarpals and phalanges as well as the carpal bones of the right hand and wrist are normal and intact with no evidence of a past or recent fracture and there is no osteitis or periostitis. There is no dislocation or any arthritic change.

The soft tissues of the hand appear normal.

MRS SYLVIA MEMAMI

6- 9-1993

There is a little erosion present in the distal tip of the ulnar-styloid process which may be due to an old fracture.

The distal end of the radius appears normal and intact with no evidence of a past or recent fracture and the distal radio-ulnar joint and radiocarpal joints are normal and intact. There is no arthritic change or loose body or soft tissue swelling.

There is slight flattening of the neck of the right radius which may well have been due to a previous fracture or may be a normal variant.

There is no evidence of a recent fracture of the radius or ulna. There is no osteitis or periostitis and the rest of the elbow joint appears normal and intact. The soft tissues of the forearm are normal.

LEFT AND RIGHT ACROMID-CLAVICULAR JOINTS WITH STRESS STUDIES

There is no evidence of dislocation or subluxation of the left acromio-clavicular joint as compared to the right side and there is no abnormal movement noted on the comparative weight-bearing studies. There is no evidence of a past or recent fracture of the distal end of the left clavicle or acromion process of the left scapula.

The right acromio-clavicular joint is normal.

RIGHT FOREARM AND HAND

There is a well corticated loose body present in the medial aspect of the base of the proximal phalanx of the index finger which is most probably due to non-union of an old avulsion fracture rather than an ununited epiphysis, although this cannot be excluded.

There is no arthritic change in the metacarpal phalangeal joint of the index finger. There is no dislocation. The rest of the proximal phalanx and metacarpal of the index finger appear normal.

The rest of the metacarpals and phalanges as well as the carpal bones of the right hand and wrist are normal and intact with no evidence of a past or recent fracture and there is no osteitis or periostitis. There is no dislocation or any arthritic change. The soft tissues of the hand appear normal.

There is a little erosion present in the distal tip of the ulnar-styloid process which may be due to an old fracture.

The distal end of the radius appears normal and intact with no evidence of a past or recent fracture and the distal radio-ulnar joint and radiocarpal joints are normal and intact. There is no arthritic change or loose body or soft tissue swelling.

There is slight flattening of the neck of the right radius which may well have been due to a previous fracture or may be a normal variant. There is no evidence of a recent fracture of the radius or ulna. There is no osteitis or periostitis and the rest of the elbow joint appears normal and intact. The soft tissues of the forearm are normal.
