Foreword by the Bishop.

OUR greatest cause for thankfulness during the past year has been the decision of the Community of the Resurrection to remain definitely at work in Sekukuniland and to establish a "House". This will mean an immense deal to the Mission, and I look forward to great progress in the future when the seed which is being so patiently and faithfully sown by Fr. Evans, helped by Fr. Cotton, and Rev. John Tsebe and devoted lay helpers, will bear fruit. I do not think anyone will fail to be moved by Fr. Evans' Report which reminds us so vividly of St. Paul's words: "In much patience, in afflictions, in necessities, in distresses". Already the first instalment of the new Mission buildings, class rooms and accommodation for teachers is going up, according to an excellent lay-out plan which will include eventually a new Mission Church, and a Community House. Father Raynes, Superior of the Community of the Resurrection, knows our needs so well that I have no doubt he will soon send more Fathers as reinforcements, young enough to get quickly to grips with the language.

It will be seen that the Hospital work goes on steadily and hopefully. It is difficult to see how any expansion is possible until such time as we are able to employ an additional doctor. I am most happy to say that Dr. Gilbert Khomo, who comes from Potgietersrust and who qualified two years ago at Birmingham, has accepted our offer to become assistant at the Hospital, whenever he is able to leave England, where he is now working under the Ministry of Pensions. He is anxious to gain some further experience before he returns to his native land.

I am very sorry to say that Dr. Kloeckner will be leaving the Hospital during the course of this year, for family and private reasons. He has been with us for over four years, a time of exceptional difficulty, and I shall always be grateful for the way in which he has so effectively carried on the work of the Hospital. We have been most fortunate to secure the services of Dr. Downing, who for thirteen years has been working with great acceptance at St. Monica's Hospital at Maciene in Portuguese East Africa. He is definitely a "Missionary Doctor," for St. Monica's is an S.P.G. Mission Hospital. He has felt that his family needed a change from the rather difficult climatic conditions, and he comes to us with the good will of his Bishop, the Bishop of Lebombo.

Anxiety about the nursing staff is continuous, and the strain on our European Sisters is very great. It seems almost impossible these days to get additional help; and it is a matter for which I would ask your special prayers. You will rejoice in the success which our African nurses have obtained in their examinations, and I look forward confidently to new successes.

Once more in the name of the friends of "Jane" I thank all those workers within and without the Hospital who support it with their devotion. The Native Affairs Department continues to help us in every possible way, and for that we cannot be too grateful. Our thanks also go to the Department of Public Health, the Transvaal Provincial Administration, the Native Recruiting Corporation, and the Transvaal Coal Owners' Association.

✠ WILFRID PRETOR.

SEKUKUNILAND MISSION REPORT.

The Community, responsible for the work of the Sekukuniland Mission, has now been settled at Jane Furse Hospital for five years, but there has been a certain amount of uncertainty as to whether it would be able to undertake this work permanently. We are now able to report the Community's decision to carry on the work and to establish a Community House here with the promise of an increase in the number of Fathers as soon as it is possible to send them out from England.

This is most encouraging news, especially perhaps to us, who conscious of increasing years, have been endeavouring to carry on the work, often under much strain and anxiety.

After five years, and as we review the work, we feel a little bit like S. Peter, "Master, we have toiled all night and have taken nothing" (except perhaps a few shrimps). We seem to have accomplished so little, there seems so little to show, at least outwardly. Then S. Peter looks at his boat and his net and the lake and though conscious of his long toil and failure he looks at Christ and says: "Master, . . . nevertheless at Thy word I will let down the net," and you know the result. Perhaps this may be a symbol of what we ought to expect—long periods of night and nothingness with a deep penitence for failure, yet constantly buoyed up with a vigorous faith and a dauntless hope, and then there follows a rich and abundant ingathering. One cannot help being conscious of a vast work to be done in exploring this large district, and trying to penetrate its heathen strongholds and striving to bring to these people the unsearchable riches of Christ. Yet it is so desperately hard to bring our young folk to the point of a definite renunciation of all that is evil in the beliefs and practices of their tribal life and to make a definite decision for Christ. They are still so much under the spell of tribal customs and practices such as the initiatory rites for boys and girls or they lack the courage to face the scorn and contempt and even persecution of their relatives and friends which inevitably follows if they refuse to participate in these rites. Yet our Christian men are all united in their strong condemnation of these initiatory rites, but are also convinced that these rites are slowly but surely weakening in their grip upon the people and also that it is only the old people who insist on their continuance. Then of course among the old people, in addition to their deep conservatism and the prevalence of gross superstition there is much drunkenness and the tenacious grip of polygamy. All this makes it difficult to penetrate into the minds and hearts of these old people and to get them to change their beliefs and way of living.

Yet there is great hope for the future and cause for much encouragement. Services are being held in an increasing number of villages and small bush-schools are being asked for and the only hindrance here is getting teachers and the means of supporting them. The number of children attending our church schools which are already established, continues to increase, and more accommodation is needed. Then the teachers and catechists continue their gallant work with much self-sacrifice and devotion — teaching in the school, conducting services in church, undertaking the pastoral care of the christians belonging to their congregation, instructing and preparing candidates for the sacraments, visiting the sick, burying the dead, arranging about marriages and reporting all to the priest when he visits the mission station once a month. And all this more distinctive church work is undertaken for the most part voluntarily.

Yet another fact which greatly encourages us is that we have a number of boys attending church Secondary Schools either at S. Peter's, Rosettenville or at Khaiso, Pietersburg, and also a number of boys and girls from these parts being trained as teachers at Grace Dieu, all of which holds the promise of a very fruitful influence on our work in the future. Two sons of a neighbouring chief have passed Standard VI at Jane Furse School and are now at S. Peter's, Rosettenville., and both are under instruction (at their own urgent request) for Holy Baptism. One of them, we hope, will in due course succeed to the chieftainship, and this fact compels us to hasten slowly in regard to his baptism. It is possible that strong pressure may be brought to bear upon him later on by the tribe that may cause him to deviate from the christian way of life and for this reason we do not hurry his preparation for baptism. He is, however, in good hands at S. Peter's, and many of the students at the Theological College there are taking a keen interest in him and helping to prepare him for the great responsibilities he must shoulder and the great possibilities that will open out before him as a christian chief. Obviously, to have a chief with deep christian convictions would be a inestimable value to the efforts of the church in overcoming tribal customs and vicious practices.

The faithful band of the Mothers' Union continues its good work in the different congregations of the mission and the Sunday Schools at Jane Furse and Marishane are being well cared for. Rev. John Tsebe, I am glad to say, was able to give a most encouraging report about the teaching of Scripture in the day schools.

So although conscious of having apparently accomplished so little and conscious of many failures, we do look forward with bright hopes to the future, relying as always on the prayers and financial aid of our friends and with a deep sense of gratitude to all those who have helped us in so many different ways in the past.

The morning will break — we are sure of that. The Sun of Righteousness will arise with healing in his wings — healing for our many sicknesses. The promise of a great catch will be brought to fulfilment. We have the same boat — the Church of the Living God, the One, Holy, Catholic and Apostolic Church, the Ark of Salvation. We have the same net, the good news of the Gospel of God; the same Master, the one Lord Jesus Christ; the same partners in the boat, the Saints of God to inspire us by their example and help us by their prayers. So we, like Peter, would respond in humble obedience, "Nevertheless, at Thy word I will let down the net," and carry on with steadfast faith and joyful hope.

MEDICAL SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

Though we have had our difficulties, mainly due to lack of nursing staff, we have been quite lucky during the past year.

As the result of the appointment of a very competent house-keeper, Mrs. Lewis, the diet for patients and Native staff has greatly improved, and considering the long distances over which food reaching us has to travel, there is little left to wish for in this respect.

Another lucky event has been the arrival of Miss Green in May, who very generously has offered her services as Tutor-Sister for the duration, and who is of great help indeed in the training of our probationers.

Thirdly, the South African Red Cross Society has given us invaluable help, by the donation of various, and most needed items of equipment, for which I wish to express my sincerest gratitude.

STATISTICS. — The variations in the number of In-patients during the last three years are chiefly due to the incidence of malaria; one can count on an average of 100 admissions per month of cases other than malaria; anything above that figure depends more or less on the Anopheles. Thus, with regard to malaria, 1943 has been far better than 1942, because we have admitted less than half the number of malaria patients in the past year, namely 385 as against 801.

The incidence of another tropical ailment, the tropical ulcer, has definitely increased; it is an infection, which if untreated, causes deep, destructive ulcerations, usually on the lower part of the leg, eating through the tissues down to the bone. Generally, the cases are advanced on admission, and it takes about two months to heal, and at the beginning daily dressings and rest seem to be important factors for a cure.

There has been a great deal of whooping cough in the district, and we have been converting the consulting room into an isolation ward for the greater part of the year. Most of our cases are infants, and often we had to accommodate babies with their mothers, which didn't make the nursing any easier, because the room we could provide for the isolation is small.

The incidence of venereal disease is still high, and the importance of the hospital and the clinics in providing facilities for treatment can best be illustrated by the following figures: More than 3,250 injections were given during the year, of which about 1,000 fall to the clinics; about 2,500 of the total injections were intravenous. But it is very encouraging to see the Native asking for injections, whereas in the past it needed a good deal of persuasion and patience when the first treatment was considered by the patient to be the last one.

Our figures also show that tuberculosis is gaining ground amongst the Natives; the danger is a real one, not only for the Bantu, but also for the European, who recruits a great number of domestic servants from the reserves where the control of tuberculosis, at least in its early stages, is absent and generally quite inadequate. Nearly a fifth of the patients who died in the hospital, died from open pulmonary tuberculosis. If we could afford it, we would build an extension to the hospital for tuberculosis only and be sure to fill its wards in short time.

CLINICS.—The reopening of the clinic at Pokwani, after closure of those at Vlakspruit and Klipspruit, has proved of great value, and after a year's existence attendances there are ranking second to Mohleletse's figure, which is the highest among the five clinics. Many requests by chiefs and headmen of various locations to open clinics at their places have to be refused, because the existing clinics and the work at the hospital as well as in the district takes all one's time, so that additional regular visits can not be fitted in.

BUILDINGS.—Plans are shaping for the extension of the Nurses' Home, which will add to it four rooms, two of which are intended to be lecture and study rooms, and two will be bedrooms. The present home was built for 12 probationers, but we now have 20 and shall have more in future. We hope to start with the building early this year.

NURSING STAFF.—After five years of excellent and generous service, devoted to her strenuous duty as matron, Miss Ethel Skinner resigned from her post in April. Her place has been taken by Miss Simmonds, who came to "Jane" in 1939 and who has been coping with the responsible and heavy work as matron without the help of a European sister for the greater part of the year. She has thrown herself into the work body and soul, and has done magnificent work. Fortunately, we have in Sister Makena, who has been with the hospital for about 12 years, a most faithful, experienced and devoted nurse who has fully justified our hopes to become a competent sister since she has been elevated to that post in February, 1943.

The appointment of Miss Green as honorary tutor-sister has already shown its great value, and we are very grateful for her coming to us. Four probationers have passed the Preliminary Nursing Examination, and fifteen have passed the Red Cross Examination in First Aid. Another nurse has passed the Final Nursing Examination at the beginning of the year. Through experience, we have been compelled to admit probationers for training only when they have passed Standard VIII at a good school, and we hope that this measure will help them and us to achieve a pass in the Final Examination.

G. KLOECKNER.

THE MATRON'S REPORT.

The work at "Jane" goes on and expands in spite of increasing difficulties such as lack of staff and limited quantities of drugs and materials.

Last April, Miss Skinner left us. Her work was most valuable and it is difficult to replace her. Then again we have had some good fortune to compensate for our difficulties. The long-felt need, which was really an absolute necessity, of a sister-tutor, has been met by the coming of Miss Ethel Green in May. Since her arrival fifteen nurses have passed the First Aid Examination and four passed the Government Preliminary Examination in October. During 1944 we hope to present two sets for the Final Government Examination and also one set for the Government Preliminary. All this means much work for the sister-tutor and for the already busy nurses. We wish them all success and give Miss Green our grateful thanks.

Mrs. Lewis who does the housekeeping most efficiently came in April. Her difficult job is very well done and the patients reap the benefit of nourishing and, as far as is possible 65 miles from any town, varied food. To her also we give our very sincere thanks.

Last February, Sophina Makena was promoted to the rank of a Sister. She is giving very efficient, unselfish and cheerful work. The nurses and patients love and trust her and to me she is really my right hand.

Mr. and Mrs. Button continue to help and encourage at all times. I do not know what "Jane" would do without them. Mrs. Kloeckner gives massage very successfully to our many fractures. They consequently leave with useful limbs. This is a most valuable work.

I suppose our most interesting case for 1943 has been Nicholas, a boy of sixteen. He was caught by a crocodile whilst bathing in a tributary of the Oliphants River. During the plucky fight he put up his knee was completely dislocated and his leg was badly bitten in several places. The leg presented a most appalling sight when he reached us 24 hours later. Gas gangrene had already set in so amputation was impossible. We spent two hours in the theatre cleaning it all up and reducing the dislocation under a general anæsthetic. We hope to save the leg, but it will be many weary months before he leaves. In the meantime Nicholas is improving greatly in his general condition and is being very spoilt by chicken, jelly, sweets, etc.

To all who so greatly help us by prayer and gifts we send our thanks.

E. M. SIMMONDS.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

After a comparatively easy life in matters previously conceived of as essentials such as water, regular income, and the entire backing of a Government Department in any undertaking for 42 years, "Jane," in contrast, is a source of never-failing interest to me.

Here the pump stops very often of late, money is never quite certain and any undertaking is more or less hazardous. But in a truly miraculous way, all these not quite so essentials now, are met. The day before Christmas, about 94 in the shade, and not a cloud in the sky and 108 patients in hospital, the pump stopped! I telephoned to a sympathetic Native Commissioner in Pietersburg, 100 miles away, and to my astonishment a mechanic was immediately sent and water flowed again. The water seems to be plentiful, but as soon as war conditions permit we must have a new machine and piping. A severe drought in these parts caused a very poor harvest though the hospital has had a greater quantity of fresh vegetables than ever before. Our most valuable Lister engine needs a very small steel pipe and this is not obtainable in the country at present; but another Lister engine sent to the distributors for repairs cannot be repaired so the pipe is lent to us pro tem!

We have fifteen very good pigs and the hospital has a plentiful supply of lard. It is doubtful whether the cost of feeding the pigs is balanced by the yield except in so far as very good ointment is produced from the fresh lard. Thematron finds most of her recreation in poultry keeping and after earnest discussions with her in regard to sick chickens and proper feed, etc., she obtains a plentiful supply of eggs for staff and patients.

The Bantu estate men continue in cheerful service. Our year ended with all our debts paid and a balance towards January expenses.

To all our very generous subscribers in England as well as in South Africa we send our most sincere thanks. Very specially do we thank the children of Sunday Schools who send their Lenten offerings, also toys and sweets, to these less fortunate children.
