What others say about the group

"Military conscription is a burning issue of conscience for many young people in South Africa — an issue to which the ECC has responded in an energetic and imaginative way. I'd recommend to all church groups — especially those for students and youth — to meet with them and discuss their message. They have much to offer all those who are questioning whether more guns, more soldiers and more training for war can provide a solution to South Africa's problems."

*Paddy Kearney,
Director of Diakonia.*

"I find that an increasing number of young South Africans are concerned and perplexed about the ambiguity in which they find themselves when confronted with the demands to undergo military service. Many are considering the variety of options open to them. I believe that the arguments for Christians to consider need to be looked at very carefully and I encourage Methodists to work out their responsibilities in terms of the justice and peace of God's kingdom in a careful way."

*John Borman, Chairman of Natal Coastal District,
Methodist Church*

"I have heard with deep gratification of the establishment of the ECC Churches Group. I understand that its object is to spread among Christian congregations, and especially members likely to be conscripted into the armed forces, awareness of all the issues connected with war and military involvement.

"I thank God for this splendid initiative, welcome its activities among church congregations and pray that its truly admirable endeavours will be blessed by the Lord with abundant success."

*Denis E Hurley, OMI
Archbishop of Durban, Catholic Church*

"Whereas I am aware that the chances of a peaceful non-violent revolution in our country are limited, I nonetheless believe that God is in control and is able to change the trend of events. The ECC commitment to non-violent action is commendable. It is a sign of God's Kingdom with us."

V G Nyobole, CEYD, Methodist Church.

"Ideally, Christians should have the freedom to decide for themselves whether or not, in any given situation, they should participate in war. Conscription makes this very difficult. Here is a group wanting to air and discuss the issues. I commend this initiative as a valuable and important one."

*Michael Nuttall
Bishop of Durban, Anglican Church*

THE END CONSCRIPTION CAMPAIGN: OUR RIGHT TO SPEAK

The State of Emergency

Ever since the State of Emergency was declared on June 12 1986, South Africans have lost the right to speak about a number of issues. In particular, it has become a severely punishable offence to discredit or undermine the system of compulsory military conscription.

Harassment

Since 12 June 1986, 48 ECC members around the country have been detained and thirteen of these people are still being held. In addition to this, members' houses have been raided, and media confiscated. The End Conscription Campaign stands for freedom of choice, but continual attempts are being made to confound the campaign.

The Right To Follow One's Conscience

The issue of conscription has become more and more problematic in South Africa. Quite simply, the army is seen to support the system of apartheid which has been condemned as a heresy by many South African churches. Now that the army has occupied many townships across the country, young men find themselves in the position of waging a veritable civil war.

Surely, they should have the right to choose whether or not they would like to render national service in this way! The End Conscription Campaign believes in working for a just peace by calling for an end to conscription and campaigning for alternative forms of national service, which would foster friendship and peace; for example, a national service community project rendering assistance to rural farming.

The Right To Speak

Can any progress be made before we have regained our right to speak? We urge the churches to examine the continuing corrosion of freedom in our country and to join the September campaign for THE RIGHT TO SPEAK.

Christians can show that they are calling for the right to speak by tying a yellow ribbon around a tree, postbox, car bumper, car aerial, lamppost or anything else one deems suitable. One can also tie a yellow ribbon around one's arm as an armband. By doing this, they will be responding to a call "to tie a yellow ribbon if you still believe in peace". It will also signify support for the right to speak, the desire for the return of soldiers from the townships and solidarity with detained compatriots.

In services of worship, Christians can remember and pray for people who have been detained because of their views and whose right to speak has been denied them. We would like to suggest that a candle surrounded by barbed wire (a symbol of the hope and promise that the Gospel carries in the midst of hardship) be lit during a service and that prayers be offered for those in detention. Congregations can also pray for specific detainees by name.

Christians are called to be vigilant about human rights and the well-being of those around them. Join us in voicing our support for the RIGHT TO SPEAK!
