HOUSING

7/1

The demolition of the shacks is disgusting and unforgivable at this time of the housing crisis. No-one would choose to live in a shack but this shelter is better than nothing until the authorities can provide alternate accomodation. If the concern of the authorities is that these are health hazards why isn't the area cleaned up and water brought in until better services can be provided? The cost of erecting these shelters is quite substantial and the materials will be lost to the owners while put into "storage". This is typical of the cynical and uncaring attitude of WRAB officials to the plight of the people which can only lead to disaster.
