

JOHANNESBURG.
13th June, 1969.

Dearest Bob,

I am returning to you, with Veronica, these papers: your house arrest order and the pages from your note-book. The letter from the Minister in reply to you is still being copied, and I will put this in the post later in the week.

But I am afraid I have done a terrible thing: I have misplaced another one of your banning orders -- the duplicated couple of pages dealing with your not being allowed to attend meetings. I am sorry about this. I just don't know what happened to it. It must have been left in the car in ~~the~~ all the moving around that we were doing. Can you perhaps advise Captain Smit that that particular banning order has been mislaid, and ask him to let you have another copy. I am really sorry about this, Bob.

Much love,
