“Tell me, doctor . . . What do you mean by a safe antiseptic? Surely any antiseptic is safer than none?”

To be called safe an antiseptic must be safe in several ways. It must be reliable, a highly efficient destroyer of many kinds of germs. It must be gentle; it must not damage the living tissues it is trusted to protect. It must be non-poisonous; it must help, not hinder, the natural processes of healing and repair. ‘Dettol’, the modern antiseptic, is a highly efficient destroyer of germs, but it works on the germs, not you. It is non-poisonous, pleasant, safe to have around.

In the presence of blood the efficiency of ‘Dettol’, though reduced, remains high. ‘Dettol’ is dependable in an emergency, because it can be used swiftly without danger or discomfort. Non-poisonous and non-staining, it is the safe way to safety.
