CALL-UP OPTIONS

1 "Legal Options"

1.1 Apply for deferment: Send a letter requesting deferment to the Exemption Board or, if you are a camper, to your unit. Your application can be supplemented by affidavits, for example from your employer. If you've got some spare cash then get an attorney to apply on your behalf.

1.2 Apply for full exemption: Exemptions can be granted on medical grounds, for example. Deferments are usually easier to get but exemptions are permanent.

1.3 Exile: Not to be recommended. Why leave the country because of the SADF when you can avoid them with not too much difficulty at home?

1.4 Challenge the validity of your call up: Your camp call-up could, for instance, be invalid if it does not provide you with "reasonable" advance warning of your camp.

1.5 Don't sign for or collect registered post (and ensure that no-one does this on your behalf): If you have not received a call-up you cannot be prosecuted successfully for not reporting.

1.6 Request an interview with the Commanding Officer of your unit to discuss your objections: This is only really feasible for campers and is easier if you are an officer. At best it is probably only a delaying tactic, but some OC's are approachable.

1.7 Inform the SADF that you intend to apply to the Board for Conscientious Objection. Then make an application which will definitely be rejected by them. This should give you a few months breathing space.

2 "Not So Legal Options"

PLEASE NOTE: There is a risk of prosecution involved in all of these options. However in nearly all of the cases where people break these laws nothing happens to them. Sentences are usually substantially less than the maximum sentence provided for. ALSO NOTE: We are not encouraging you to perjure yourself in court or to engage in bribery or blackmail of SADF officials.

2.1 Don't register: This option is mostly only open to those who are still at school. Your teacher is often the person who registers you at 16. You could indicate that you wish to register yourself and then fail to do so. (Maximum fine R2 000).

2.2 Don't notify the SADF of your change of address: Ask a friend if you can use their name to open a post-office box or get a telephone. Also ensure that people, at your previous home or work, as well as your parents, do not provide your address or telephone number to anyone. Instead they should take messages for you and offer to pass these on to you "if they see you". (Maximum fine R2 000).

2.3 "Leave the country": Send the SADF a letter from outside South Africa (even from one of the "independent homelands") saying that you are permanently resident outside the country. The SADF may then defer you and request that you inform them of your new South African address on your return. After you return you may then "forget" to tell the SADF that you are back. If you are not leaving the country yourself, ask a friend who is going overseas to post the letter for you. (Maximum fine R2 000).

2.4 Don't report: Nothing happens to over 90% of people who don't report for their call-ups. If you are followed up, prosecuted, and found guilty the average sentence is R300 - R500. (Maximum fines: Private - R600, NCO - R1 200, Officer - R5 000).

2.5 Refuse to serve: Directly inform the SADF that you refuse to do any (or any more) military service. The SADF hardly ever prosecute people for this as it usually results in them getting very bad publicity. In the unlikely event of your being prosecuted and found guilty, you would most likely receive a sentence of community service. (Maximum sentence - imprisonment).

2.6 Get your file "lost" : This is an option for campers or national servicemen who have direct access to SADF personnel records or friends or contacts with such access.

3. "NON OPTIONS"

3.1 Registering as a Conscientious Objector: If you are officially recognised by the Board for Conscientious Objection as a CO you will be ordered to do full time "community service" in a government department for one-and-half times your total outstanding military service commitment. If you do not complete all your community service you can be imprisoned in DB.

3.2 Applying for deferment after reporting for your call-up -The SADF may suggest to you that you should report for your call-up, and that the unit will then consider your application for deferment. They may then take advantage of this situation and refuse the application thereby forcing you to do your full camp.

Don't co-operate with the call-up!

- Reasons:
- * that the ending of conscription will contribute to peace
 - * that South Africa's problems have to be solved peacefully, rather than
 - * that conscription into the SADF still is the cause of a severe moral dilemma for many in the white community.

* ANC people that we could contact to recruit for the register in their branches (best to discuss this with Adele)

Tony Rutherford (I have been remiss in not updating Tony about what is happening with this campaign)

Anton Roskam (works at Bell, Dewar and Hall) - Eastern suburbs(?)

Derek Hanekom - 330-7000/7266

Graham Dewar 837-9317 (Northern or north-eastern suburbs)

Karl Niehaus was going to give us the names of people that we could contact in other regions.

* Organisations which we could speak to:

UDUSA (University Democratic Staff Association)
- Stan Frielick 716-3376

* Steve Louw (lecturer politics department) said he would speak to one or two people to get them to sign the register (Anton Basson/Mark Deveney).

* Attached are possible statements for people who are breaking 121(c) or who are supporting the non-cooperation campaign to use.

④ Meeting with Minister

* Spoke to Colonel/Commadeer(?) van Breda this morning. He said he'd get back to me.

⑤ Court application
