(af)

MRS. VERONICA SUBUKWE has returned to Johannesburg from Robben Island, where she visited her husband, Robert, who is confined to special quarters at the prison.

She said yesterday that she had to buy her own food during the two weeks she spent with her husband, a former university lecturer and leader of the Pan-Africanist Congress, a banned organisation.

This is the second trip she has taken to the island to see her husband.

SIXTH YEAR

It is the sixth year that Sobukwe has been confined on the island after serving his three-year sentence for a campaign against pass laws which he led in 1960.

The minister of Justice, Mr. Pelsler, has said he is satisfied that Sobukwe should be kept in detention because he had not changed his political views.

Mrs. Sobukwe is a nurse at a clinic in Soweto and her four children are all at boarding school.

The authorities have refused her husband an exit permit from South Africa.
