

I have not yet received the dictionary you and Eric sent: so I can't comment on it, but I can thank you, as I now do, for sending it.

Thank you for renewing the "Leader's Digest" subscription. The "Cape Times" and "Cape Argus" subscriptions expire in May while the "Sunday Times" will continue to be delivered until the 9th September. I am not sure whether I shall ask you to renew subscription for the latter. It has become quite barren.

About my studies. The syllabus arrived and I noted the requirements. As I told you, I had arranged applications for registration but have not yet received confirmation. I suspect that the snag is my lack of a classical language. I, therefore, intend to write to the Senate House and find out whether I can do the required language at the same time as I am doing the degree or whether I must have the language before I can study for the degree.

After much thought I have decided to attempt Arabic, in spite of the emotions such a choice might arouse! The reason is, really, that it is an African language in which a great deal of early African history has been written. I hope you'll have no yiddish objections.

Yes, I'll have my post office account here and you can send the money direct to the post office. Thanks, once more, for the Stuttpots facilities. As I informed you in my letter, I have ordered some articles from Stuttpots, on your account, but haven't heard from them yet.

The clothing you refer to, Benjie, is that the sports jacket? I note that you say you sent these "recently". After Veronica's August visit, - the sports coat is the only item of clothing I received from you. The L.L. pyjamas are just what you describe.

Thanks for news of Jenny. I'll write more later. I want - this Affectionately, Bob.
